

TEST DE COMPETENȚĂ LINGVISTICĂ
LIMBI MODERNE APLICATE

- 1). Read the text below and choose the FALSE statement: "Many youngsters these days devote more time to watching TV than they do to any other form of entertainment. Each year children read less and less and watch TV more and more. In fact, a typical child sits through an average of about four hours of TV viewing every day. They spend more time on this form of entertainment than they spend talking to parents, playing with friends, attending school or reading books. According to a recent study, 62% of television programmes contain scenes of violence. It would be logical then to assume that watching a steady flow of violent images on screen cannot be seen simply as entertainment. The bright colours, quick movements and sudden flashes will always capture a child's attention and there are certainly very few children who find television totally uninteresting. If we listen to the experts, it seems that viewing large amounts of TV violence does not necessarily cause a child to act in a violent way, but can lead to the view that violence is acceptable in everyday life, as well as possibly creating a fear of being attacked on the street."
